

WEBSITE DESIGN DIRECTION

Contemporary Quiet Luxury with Editorial Minimalism

Overall Design Direction

The website should have a minimal, contemporary and quiet luxury aesthetic, with a strong focus on premium imagery, typography and generous spacing. The experience should feel sophisticated and architectural rather than overly corporate. Projects and visuals should take centre stage, supported by clean typography, subtle interactions and a restrained colour palette.

Colour Palette

Primary: #171717 to #0B0B0B subtle dark gradient

Secondary: #FFFFFF for contrast, typography and clean sections

Accent: #5B81B2 used sparingly for highlights, interactions, links or selected UI elements.

The overall palette should remain predominantly dark, neutral and sophisticated. Blue should function as an accent rather than a dominant brand colour.

Typography

Use an entirely sans serif typography system.

Body and paragraphs: Glacial Indifference

Headings: A refined modern sans serif inspired by Bang & Olufsen and the selected references. Headings can be large and confident, especially on banners and project pages, while remaining clean and understated.

Navigation

The navigation should overlay the hero or banner image rather than sit inside a separate navigation bar. Menu elements should remain lightweight and minimal, with generous spacing. Navigation colours can adapt for contrast as the user moves between dark and light sections. Icons should be thin, simple and minimal.

Imagery & Layout

The design should be strongly image led. Use large scale project photography, full width banners and carefully cropped architectural imagery. Layouts should have generous negative space and avoid unnecessary boxes, borders, cards and decorative elements. Project pages should feel closer to a luxury brand portfolio or architectural publication than a conventional construction company website.

Animation & Interaction

Animations should be minimal, smooth and purposeful. Preferred interactions include subtle fades, gentle image reveals, restrained hover effects and smooth transitions. Avoid excessive parallax, constant movement, elaborate cursor effects or animations that slow access to content. The premium feeling should come from restraint rather than excessive motion.

REFERENCES & BENCHMARKS

Visual references, competitor positioning and what to avoid

REFERENCE	ROLE IN DESIGN DIRECTION
Gucci https://www.gucci.com/sa/ar/	Reference for minimalism, immersive imagery and clean presentation.
Bang & Olufsen https://www.bang-olufsen.com/	Primary reference for quiet luxury, typography and sophisticated visual language.
Flos https://flos.com/	Close reference for architectural layouts, large imagery and minimal animation.
Abra Group https://abragroup.ae/	Example of what to avoid: animation is too dominant for the desired direction.
Spaceme https://www.spaceme.ae/	Competitor reference. Similar industry positioning, but the proposed website should feel more refined, minimal and luxury focused.

Competitive Positioning

Spaceme is relatively close in terms of industry positioning and content structure. However, the new website should feel more refined, minimal and luxury focused, with stronger typography, more intentional spacing and a more editorial presentation. The objective is not to replicate the competitor, but to elevate the visual positioning beyond the typical fit out or construction company aesthetic.

Core Creative Principle

Luxury brand first, fit out company second. Keep the necessary corporate information, services and project details, but present them through the visual language of a premium design house. The work itself should become the visual identity.
